

Registry Matters Episode 40 – Don't hold back your social media password

written by astein | September 4, 2018

The Registry Matters Podcast moves into episode 40 this week. An article from the Economist posits why support for the death penalty is going up; failure to report your social media passwords could put you behind bars; the California bail bill might not be as great as everyone thinks; new sexual misconduct rules from the feds; officer who shot 15 y/o gets 15 years; defendants pay to plead guilty in PA; a decision from the 7th circuit court of appeals against the homeless; criminal justice system in SF waives fees for 21k people; an opinion piece by Lenore Skenazy; intellectually challenged teen has sentence removed but still in treatment to reduce recidivism; and podcast interview w/ Emily Horowitz. WOW! All of that content this week. Holy cow.

Share the podcast with those you know so that we can continue to grow our audience! We continue to receive a lot of positive feedback. Help us grow!

<http://www.Registrymatters.co/rm40-dont-hold-back-your-social-media-password>

747-227-4477

registrymatterscast@gmail.com

<https://www.patreon.com/registrymatters>