

Virginia professor to step down after backlash to research on 'minor-attracted' people

written by admin | November 30, 2021

An academic in Virginia whose research on “minor-attracted people” sparked threats and a petition calling for their removal announced their resignation Wednesday, university officials and the scholar said in a joint statement. Allyn Walker will remain on leave until they step down as an assistant professor of criminal justice and sociology at [...]

[\[Read More\]](#)