New research study applicants sought by Emily Harowitz

written by admin | April 17, 2022

Dr. Emily Horowitz, author of Protecting Our Kids? How Sex Offender Laws Are Failing Us (Praeger, 2015) and Professor of Sociology & Criminal Justice at St. Francis College is seeking to interview those listed on the public registry about their experience for a forthcoming book project. The interviews will be conducted by phone and all published work will keep the identity of those interviewed anonymous and confidential. If you are interested in participating or learning more about this please email Dr. project, Horowitz at ehorowitz@sfc.edu and she will send you more information about the project and how to set up an interview.