

No sex-offender status for men convicted under anti-sodomy law in South Carolina

written by admin | April 25, 2022

Men convicted under South Carolina's anti-sodomy law will no longer be required to register as a sex offender, according to a settlement agreement. The settlement was reached April 22 between Attorney General Alan Wilson, South Carolina Law Enforcement Division Chief Mark Keel and the state's ACLU chapter. ACLU attorneys filed [...]

Read more